

Life in the Classroom

by Bona Rae Villarta (April 20, 2011)

Background: In a classroom, be it in elementary, high school or college, there are two groups involved: the teacher (or professor in college setting) and the students. This describes life in a typical college classroom.

Here we are, in a classroom
Where professors and students meet
He will teach us, and we will learn from him.

While we await him
We enjoy our freedom
Either we study in advance or we do our other activities
Or even interact with each other.

When he comes, we are quiet and listening to him.
Depending on the lesson, we react differently
And sometimes make noise along the way.

When classes end for the day
We part ways, or we go together
But we learn from experience
That it's not just the lesson that matters.

Want more poems like this? Visit <http://sites.google.com/site/bonarae/> for more.

This work is licensed under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike 3.0 Philippines License. To view a copy of this license, visit <http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-sa/3.0/ph/> or send a letter to Creative Commons, 171 Second Street, Suite 300, San Francisco, California, 94105, USA.